The Official 2024 Diary

By °°°°

The following diary has no other purpose but to document the daily life of the fallen-from-grace Content Creator "RODBlox".

It is not my intent to publish this diary in any form, whether its in a book, newspaper article, post in an Internet forum or any way conceivable. However, this does not mean that the person that may find these writings is not allowed to publish this diary in any of the previously mentioned ways, and it is and will be the decision of the person that stumbles upon this diary what he or she will do of it.

This diary only has two purposes. The first is to be a way to liberate my emotions and feelings towards my life, certain people and goals that remain in the remaining 10 years that I've got left in this world. The second one is to document some memories I still have about the things I did during the early 2020's epoch, certainly the golden age of my life which will never come back to me in any way, nor in any form.

With this said, feel free to read the Diary.

DEATH WILL COME

DEATH WILL COME

Death.

For some it's an incredibly worrying and frightening prospect, the fact that someday, everyone you know, everyone you love, everything you wish, everything you have learned, everything you are and could be, will come that an end. For others, it's a beautiful and relieving fate, because some people have such a horrible and unforgiving life that they can only do but wish that all of their suffering, misery and agony will come to an end during a sudden and discrete death during a sleep. For me, personally, it's the former.

Despite everything I had to go through, every fight, every beating, every sharp cut, every punch, every insult, every day wasted, every friend and family member lost... I enjoy my life. I in fact, I'm so incredibly lucky, fortunate and privileged compared to other unfortunate people.

When compared to my compatriots, I live in a mansion, with all the food I could want and every game I could ever get. I have a fanbase of around 4.000 people and a channel with 240.000 subscribers and 25.000.000 views by the time I'm writing this. I met and talked to people that played an important role in my life, in such a way that they feel like characters from an extremely good novel, TV show or even a movie.

Piedra, Alexplay, Lunemi, Evan, Mendo... I still fondly remember all of you.

I had to go through events, life experiences that the ordinary person could have never dreamed of. I went through near-death experiences; I escaped from wild beasts and rode horses; I worked out tirelessly until total fatigue; I helped one of the most interesting people on this planet; I alone built a very big palace which doesn't have an interior to be fair; I made by myself a movie in just 3 weeks; I created an encryption system that not even a quantum computer could break; I created the very best theories of which the majority turned out the be true; I gave the very best speeches the commoner could ever listen to; I won everything I could wish and lost everything I could lose; I went through pain and the worst times of my life, and when fate seemed to have won, I never gave up and rose again through the ashes like a phoenix; I danced, I stood still, I laughed and I cried, I cut myself open and bled without pain, I worked without end and played with no stop; I was the best man to outsiders and the worst guy inside. All of this and much, MUCH MORE... in just 3 years.

I'm not most interesting man in this world, not even on the top 50%. But I still have a tale I wished that its heard, because I live in a world where freedom of speech is allowed, where people can tell their stories without fear of judgment, where commoners like you and me can achieve greatness.

It is the 16th of April, the year of our Lord, 2024. It is currently 10:31 PM by the time I'm writing this. I was born on December 13th, 2007. I am now 16 years old, with a life that with each passing second gets closer and closer to its end. I am fully aware that the day that death will come I will not be able to do anything to stop it. I do not know when will death come, nor in what way, nor where it'll be, so whatever time is left in my life I shall fully use it with no waste, because apathy is death, worse than death, because at least a corpse feeds the beasts and insects.

However, I must remember I am human, and know my limitations and potentials. I am a good orator, a good builder, a good editor and a good encryptor. But I am bad at socializing, talking, taking risks and going beyond my comfort zone. But, as with every great man and woman that has ever walked on Earth, I must know that these limitations can no longer be limitations with the right mindset and a lust for greatness. So, just like them, I shall fight hard and wisely to achieve even greater things than I've ever had. I shall take risks, knowing fully well that the prizes will be high, just like the punishment for failure will be. I shall fight to win, to achieve victory and nothing else. Because what I do now will help my family and those who surrounding me to achieve a better tomorrow. Just like the great men and women of the past who by their sacrifices gave us the world we have today, I shall fight to construct with my peers a better tomorrow for us and our descendants who will be heirs of this world.

I'll operate on a ticking clock of which I do not know when it'll stop, so I must act quickly and decisively to achieve as much as I can in my life, to not only achieve my own satisfaction and self-realization, but to give both my parents, my siblings, my uncles and aunts, my cousins, my mates and everyone who lives in this planet, a better tomorrow.

I do not know what will come, but whatever it is... I shall stand firm.